DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 102

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 20-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chow for the reasons of record.

In response to this rejection, Applicants argue that the device of Chow differs from the instant invention in that Chow provides for data collection and analysis locally at the site where the assay is performed while in the instant invention, data is recorded in the recording part and the recording part is detached from the assay part so that the data may be onwardly transmitted for subsequent processing and analysis at a remote data processing site.

Applicant's arguments have been considered but are not convincing. The device of Chow contains all of the components required in the rejected claims. Applicant's argument is essentially directed to how the device of Chow is being used versus how the instantly claimed device is being used, i.e. analysis of collected data on site as in Chow versus analysis of collected data at a site other than where the data is collected as in the instantly claimed device. Since the instant claims are not directed to methods of use, the intended use of the instantly claimed device is irrelevant because an intended use cannot be given any patentable weight. The intended use of the instantly claimed device does not distinguish it from the device of Chow because an intended use does not set forth a tangible limitation. While the device of Chow is not used in the same manner as the instantly claimed device, it contains all of the components recited in the rejected claims and thus anticipates the instantly claimed device.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 103

3. Claims 20-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hillman et al in view of either Galen et al or Phillips et al for the reasons of record.

In response to this rejection, Applicants argue that Hillman et al, Galen et al, and Phillips et al all do not disclose a detachable recording part.

Applicant's arguments have been considered but are not convincing. The Examiner addressed this argument in the previous office action. Applicant's attention is directed to page 7 of the previous office action which talks about the detachable recording part in Galen et al and Phillips et al.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO

Art Unit: 1641

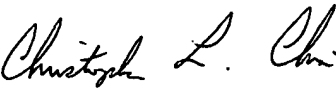

MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
